

Sifteo Cubes

Wednesday, 12 January 2011

Game makers are always revolutionizing the game machines, whereby makers are ingeniously incorporating various technological features in high tech games. And Sifteo has recently gained the limelight, whereby earlier, the company announced their latest Cubits that would feature several 1.5-inch blocks that allows gamers to play various types of games.

Basically, the Cubits have been renamed to Cubes, and the Cubes would be available in early 2011 for $99. And part of the package includes a trio of 1.5-inch blocks, and the game company is also very generous in granting 1000 points for you to download games and applications from their online store. Also, the company is granting an online coupon in which you can use to get 50% off anything in the Sifteo store.

{mosgoogle}