PayU2Blog Re-Reviewed! A Reply from Tony!

Thursday, 08 March 2007

A little update from PayU2Blog! I just received an email from them stating that my blog has been approved and might receive job assignments from them. Of course this is the time to re-review their website and receive a 2nd opinion from DotMySpot.com.

As mentioned earlier, PayU2Blog is another paid-to-blog site similar to PayPerPost, Blogitive, Blogsvertise, LoudLaunch, V7N, and many many more that can’t seem to spill from my head.

I’ve not really received job assignments yet from them, but here’s an email from Tony from PayU2Blog:

{mosgoogle left}Your blog is nice and would qualify.

Are you serious about doing some posts for us ?

 I like your blog, and would be happy to add you in and start sending assignments your way but I need to make sure you are serious about it, and not just looking for another article on your blog.

 If you are looking for review of us I can send you some bloggers to talk to if you would like, I am sure many would happy to share their experiences with us.

Let me know.

Thanks

Tony

As usual, business is business and I will accept any forms of assignments. Although it might not be entirely relevant to this blog I’ve received good hits from all major search engines. The past couple of weeks I did a review on tattoos! – It’s one of the biggest hits from search engines, especially cross tattoos. Boy, I’m sure advertisers are pretty happy since they themselves are also benefiting from this as well.

As a reply, Tony from PayU2Blog if you are reading this, I’m serious about getting job assignments from you! Bring ‘em on!

A couple of things that you should take notice:

1. You get $5 bucks per assignment and have to meet the requirements before receiving payment
2. You get paid via PayPal every 2 weeks
3. No negative remarks allowed
4. Advertisers from real estate, retail, medical

As for bloggers that have successfully made money out of this program (mentioned earlier by Tony in the email), you can actually pay their FAQ section a visit to read reviews by them by clicking here.

http://blog.payu2blog.com/5/bloggers-get-paid-to-blog

Try submitting your blog today!

The cheap web hosting has   enabled people to make internet fraud easily. There are many scams online   providing fake domain name   registration and they just rip off customers. You need to be more   careful about authenticity of websites when buying business web hosting. Many web design   sites are providing free templates and free hosting so it is easy now   to make a website for fraud. Many hackers are making this type of   websites to crack wireless internet   service. There are lots of backup software that can be used to safe your data from hackers.   Big companies use business wifi to protect their network from hackers.