

Google October 2008 PR Update Completed

Monday, 20 October 2008

It seems Google has finally completed their PR update for the month. All the rankings on my domains are stable now and there aren't any fluctuations.

I think for the past 3 months, Google has been vigorously updating their PR table to try out new algorithms – I think they have finally found the right algorithm as previously, some of my pages got PR5 and it was redirected to another high PR site (but I did not redirect it).

Let's hope that Google would go back to the 3-4 months PR update cycle.